

Total Product Management

Overview

Exponent provides regulatory and technical support to assist clients manage their product portfolios on a global and regional level, providing both regulatory and technical support. In this capacity, our consultants work closely with in-country regulatory managers, overseeing product registrations and re-registrations, addressing scientific and technical needs and tracking of international regulatory issues. Exponent's global technical responsibilities include providing worldwide technical expertise and support, and the design and oversight of studies to support country specific and global needs. With Total Product Management, Exponent works closely with clients to ensure that their regulatory efforts are coordinated on a global level and that regulatory issues on the horizon are identified and addressed proactively.